Yuletide Greetings from Clergy of Wetaskiwin

CHRISTMAS BELLS

Christmas will soon be with us again. Christmas with its sound of bells, its frosty air and wintry skies. Christmas with its happy children's faces; bright eyes shining in the warm glow of the Yuletide log.

Surely nowhere in all the wide, wide world could the proverbial Christmas setting be more complete than it is in our own beloved North land.

Little wonder that Christmas has come to take such a wide place in our home and community life. Together with ideal Christmas setting, we have a country of such rigorous climate that the Christmas spirit abounds a real need in our scheme of things. It did not take the old-timers long to learn the secret existence in this far-fung land. Every day we lived in the spirit of Christmas. In summer heat or winter cold they always hung the latching string on the outside of the door.

It will always be a question with myself, how much we have been indebted to Charles Dickens and how much to the old-timers who are silent, passing on. There can be no doubt of the Christmas spirit. But the great "Christmas Carol" gave to the English speaking world a new conception of the Christmas spirit. But the great master of letters merely drew on the experience that fell to his lot and all the lot of many men and women of his time. Nevertheless there has been nothing finer handed down to us in written word, concerning the spirit of Christmas than that which we owe to Dickens.

Did I say nothing finer? Nothing except the grand old Scripture story of the birth of our Saviour. For we have there, all the pathos, deep sublimity, that turns the soul to tears. Who can read those simple words "There was no room for them in the inn," without feeling something of the child-like sorrow that moved the heart of Evangelist.

It is a word-picture that will live forever. Could anything be more beautiful, childhood, angels, sheep, birds, wise men, and God's great afterthought, the stars. How wonderfully it all toned by the mellow light of heaven. It is a picture to lift us up. A picture that makes all of us God's concern, from empty stockings to vacant lives, from broken boys to broken hearts. A picture to teach us how Heaven likes about us in our infancy, and—

"The drift of pinions, would we hearken, Beat at our own clay-shuttered doors."

Mayor Montgomery at Kiwanis Luncheon Gives Review of Civic Affairs

The Kiwanis Club entertained the members of the city council and the public and separate school boards at their luncheon Tuesday evening. Mayor Montgomery was the speaker of the evening, and he reviewed the work of the council for the past year. Owing to unforeseen circumstances the expenditure this year exceeded last year by about $5,000. The National Defence Dept. at Ottawa had been forced to withdraw "The city employees are not paid semi-monthly instead of monthly. In spite of the cancellation of the service tax this year the council was able to reduce its tax rate. New steel cells are being installed for prisoners. The usual grant of $500 had been made to the Agricultural Society and special grants of $300 to the Diamond Jubilee committee and $100 to the athletic association had been made. The principle of accepting prepayment of taxes was again used, which reduced the amount borrowed from the bank. Every residence taken by the city on account of taxes had been sold, and the isolation hospital had also been disposed of. A caretaker had been engaged for the cemetery, and he spent about six months working there. The Mayor paid a tribute to the work of the fire department, and 200 feet of new hose had been bought. A block of land had been set aside as a Jubilee Park and a parks board had been appointed. A good live board of trade should be organized in Wetaskiwin, as many things should be dealt with which would be for the betterment of the city. There had been two cases of litigation, and the city had won both. The Prince of Wales had remembered Wetaskiwin by the presentation of a number of paeony plants. Two requests for a gas franchise had been received, but the council declined to entertain either of them. The tax rate was one and one-half mills lower than last year. The amount to be raised by assessment had been reduced from $125,000 in 1922 to $88,000 in 1926 and $93,000 in 1927. Referring to the water condition, the new well was not put down deep as expected owing to the flow of water last summer, but this well should be deepened by the incoming council. The electric light department had a revenue of $5,000 over last year, and a new unit was being installed which would take all the load available for some time to come.

ALBERTA LEGISLATURE WILL CONVENE FEB. 2

The second day of February, which comes on Thursday, will be opening date for the Alberta legislature. Premier Browne announces that the decision of the government, and preparations will at once be made accordingly. Work on the program of legislation is already well in hand.

How long a session it will be is not being foretold at the present time. The premier says the agenda is not likely to be a long one, but it will include a number of new bills and amendments that will quite possibly involve a good deal of discussion, and the session may therefore be of about the usual length. The date fixed is one clear week of last year, and the government is hoping that the end may be reached by the end of March.

A CHRISTIAN FESTIVAL

Christmas, as the name itself clearly indicates, is essentially a Christian festival.

Christmas is the commemoration of the birth of Jesus Christ and the time at which the "Mass" or "Communion" is celebrated with a special intention to thank God for Christ's birth and all it has meant to us. Now the derivation of Christmas which is Christ's mass (s), (the two "e" have got worn away in the process of time) is no matter of private opinion, but a logical fact which one will find indicated in any good dictionary of the English language.

Any message that one writes must therefore be addressed to those who believe in love and are trying to follow in the footsteps of Him who was born on the first Christmas Day.

Such people will doubtless have a real good time this Christmas—whether they will eat, drink and be merry, but their merriment will not be mere empty mirth which tends to foolish excesses, but that real joy and happiness which is based on the peace and security of Christ and His friends. Such people will carry around with them a Christmas atmosphere.

In these days we are all aware of the importance of mental, moral and spiritual atmosphere. Most of us, for instance, have seen an otherwise ugly party or gathering marred and spoiled by the atmosphere of hatred, jealousy, suspicion, or distrust generated perhaps by only one or two people. Those, then, who are really keeping Christmas will generate and carry around with them an atmosphere of Peace, Goodwill and Joy.

Peace is meant that sense of security and permanent happiness which is found by those who have a definite trust and union with Christ. This "Peace of God which passeth all understanding" should be possessed at all times and especially at this holy season will be intensified among those who make this a joyful and happy religious festival.

Christmas is this a season of goodwill. If our goodwill is real "goodwill" it will not only be extended to those we like but also to those people who perhaps through no fault of their own do not especially impress us. If we are to cultivate the Christmas spirit we must successfully banish all feelings of hatred, jealousy, envy, etc., and be on good terms with the world.

If we make this a really religious festival and create within ourselves an atmosphere of Peace and Goodwill we shall have real joy and happiness.

There is just one last thing most of us are hoping to get something this Christmas. It has been said it is most blessed to give than to receive. If we have created within ourselves the Christmas atmosphere, we can give out to the world at least a smiling happy face, and shall thus be giving as well as receiving and also helping to spread the atmosphere of Christmas. Wishing you a holy and happy Christmas.

Vicar, Emmanuel Church.

VALUES COMPARED

Hundreds of thousands of American magazines are sold to Canadian homes each month. The average cost is 25 cents per copy, or three dollars a year. Compare that with a worthwhile Canadian publication, combining a weekly newspaper covering the worlds news, a family magazine with which few, if any, of the 25 cent monthly magazines can compare in supplying every member of the family, old and young, with the very best and cleanest literature, short and serial stories, and hundreds of other features that interest every member of the family, and an agricultural journal vastly superior to any purely agricultural papers in this country. All these three are included in one big 72 page paper, and sent every week, instead of monthly, to the reader, at the small cost of one dollar a year for the 52 issues, instead of three dollars for twelve. The Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal is the publication referred to, the greatest dollar's worth on the continent. Why not patronize home industry?

Messrs. Carl and Walter Dahms left a few days ago on an extended trip to Whistler, where they will spend sometime at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Dahms of Jay's Alpau.

A MERRY HEART MAKETH CHEERFUL THE COURTESY

That is it written in the Old Testament. And so it is written on the faces of young and old today!

In those twinkling eyes and happy smiles of folks about us, we read fulfillment of the Christmas Message—

"Peace on Earth, Good Will toward Men!"

Not only read it—but understand. Yes, realize that it comes from Merry hearts that know no malice, no hate, with every beat, send forth Happiness and the warmth of Love, and Wish all to Manhood!

Everybody sees young again!

Glad to live and let live. Finding untold joys in giving with a generous heart—making not the cost but finding well repaid if only with a smile. Finding happiness in making others happy. Ah—verily—the spirit of Christmas.

Finding pleasure in the spirit of Christmas.

From the scores of sparkling ornaments, strands of gold tinsel, multi-colored lights or humble candles. Even the stars of the Silent Night add their brilliancy to the scene. Truly, what could be more fascinating? Sacred?

A MERRY CHRISTMAS TO ALL

"Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, goodwill toward men."

Heaven and earth was stirred by the birth of Jesus in Bethlehem of Judea in the days of Herod the King. The passing of years has constantly increased in the eyes of man the greatness of that historic event. Today, in Christian countries, at least in Canada, no season awakens more tenderness in the hearts of men than the Christmas season. This tenderness is certainly evidence of a real desire to be kind. It is pleasant to notice that this kindness, with the great majority of people and institutions, is not confined to the family or to personal friends, but takes pleasure in seeking out people who are finding the battle of life hard and needing for the occasion a little cheer. All our institutions, public and private, even our streets and highways, present scenes—beautiful human moving pictures—of crowds of people going forth with both arms full of kindness, with a smile on the face and a gentle word on the lips, all saying in their own way to all around "A Merry Christmas," or using the words of the angel "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth Peace, Goodwill toward men."

Love for Jesus, as God's Son and the Saviour of man is the foundation of this Joyous Season! Welcome, holy, joyful, gay, here and there. Gallop, jingled, jingled and prancing—of gold tinsel, ornaments, strands of gold tinsel, multi-colored lights or humble candles. Even the stars of the Silent Night add their brilliancy to the scene. Truly, what could be more fascinating? Sacred?

A MERRY CHRISTMAS

"To bring the greatest birth that ever took place upon earth—the birth of the Son of God and His Son. It is the birth of manhood, God's purpose in the birth, life, death and resurrection of Jesus Christ, and is to, save us from sin."

His plan is to save a few select ones—"to let out of the world, but to save the whole of mankind. This is the only interpretation to the words of John: "For God so loved His Son, that He gave Him to the world that the world might not perish through his death."

Jesus finished His work, but left to human hands their work. His word to His disciples was "Love one another as I have loved you," and also "Go ye into all the world."

The message of our Master thus justifies this flood of Christmas tenderness and love, but at the same time lays upon the conscience of Christian people the responsibility of conveying the Spirit of Jesus, the Christmas spirit, throughout the entire world, and of distributing it throughout the ages.

In the light of this responsibility the brotherhood work of all is most commendable, but the work of those people and institutions which follow up day by day and week by week through the year, this task of conveying the Spirit of Jesus is by far the more praiseworthy, and again those people and institutions which continue in this manner and also look beyond the immediate community into needy neighborhoods of this land and to people of other lands, are surely most praiseworthy. If all would join this class, not neglecting the local needs but adding to them the wider claim of Christian love, the whole world could sing—

"Joy to the world, the Lord is come; Let earth receive her King."

Let every heart prepare him room,

And heaven and nature sing."

TAKING CHRISTMAS
SERIOUSLY

Christmas is celebrated in most places but not pretty far away from the deepest meaning of the birth of Christ in our human world. There is an abundance of good fellowship, but not an equal amount of genuine good will. There is much superficial amability, but not an equal regard for true peace on earth. Friendly greetings which are beautiful and hearty pass freely between friends, but it is an open question how far the Christmas season restores friendship between people who have been estranged, creates friendship between groups that have been hostile, or positively advances good will and peace between the races and people; for all of whom Christ came to live and at last to die. Gifts, often expensive and lavish, are exchanged between people who like one another, or feel under obligation to do something generous to people who have been generous, but a sober facing of the meaning of the gift of God in Jesus Christ and what that calls for is not so common. And words like these will seem utterly discordant, and Christmas revelers, reading them, will be sure that the writer is a pestilential "kill joy" in his spirit.

So also the note of the angels, like the name of Jesus, strikes strangely if not discordantly into the cheerful temper of these later days. Why are we that we should have a Saviour from our sin? What are sins, anyhow? And who is he that should think he can save us from them? The blight of shallowness lies in this deadly fashion upon all too many of our people and too much of our life. We are celebrating Christmas joyfully, as we ought, but missing and forgetting, if not denying, the real reason for the joy that Christ's coming brought to men. It would be hard to see the face of the Saviour at all through many of the current Christmas celebrations, or hear the note of the angels' song above the gaiety of Christmas revelry. Most important, though, is that blight note in the original event—the note of purpose, the note of sacrifice, the note of redemption. How ever cheerfully we take Christ as, the coming of Christ into our human world was no holiday matter for Him. Nor was it intended just to give a happy holiday which we have surrounded with many pagan features. When our eyes are really open we see the moral purpose of His coming, the thought of God in having Him come, the meaning for men who had missed the mark, men who were lost. There were no others.

As a rule, we take the Easter season and what we call Passion Week more seriously and soberly. But the life of Jesus was all of one piece. He did not just begin to be the Saviour when the shadow of the cross fell upon Him at the end. The Saviour was born at Bethlehem. The hands of the Bethlehem Babe were infant hands. One can easily see the lovely picture of Him and Mary. But they were the hands that would afterward be nailed to Calvary's cross. He was born not to make a holiday, but to save a world, and to save it at any cost. Our shallow, superficial, good-natured Christmas is far enough from what Bethlehem meant. Many knew in part, the Wise Men knew in part, the angels knew in part. The heart of God knew altogether. Maybe one of our highest hardly know how I should live at all." Let us not miss the truth here through fear of mysticism. Both these men—St. Paul and the archbishop—had hold of the matter at the right end and were looking and going the right way. The incarnation is an eternal fact for human experience and an eternal principle for human practice. As long as we treat it just as a doctrine we are missing its supreme value. Such truths as this and the atonement and the Trinity and inspiration can only be saved from scholasticism and dryness by passing into life and experience.

And the experience of the incarnation, what Paul may have meant by "having Christ formed in us," can only reach its real meaning by working out in us as it worked out in Jesus Christ, practically and usefully. In Jesus divine strength put itself into the very lives of weak men, took their weakness upon Himself in order that He might save them from their weakness. In His divine truth put itself into the ignorance and bondage of men that He might set them free. In His goodness and holiness put themselves into the very heart of evil, took men's will upon themselves, that men might be saved from evil. In Jesus Christ divine wealth and divine health put themselves into the very heart of man's poverty and men's disease, the poverty and disease due to man's own sin, that men might be rich and whole in Him. And really I know no better way to understand the meaning than to practice it.

And all this for a Christmas message! For a greeting to people who are thinking of Bethlehem's Babe, and not at all of such sober stuff as this! I, too, am thinking of Him, and the Wise Men and the mother and the angels. But I am also thinking of Him as the waiting years stretch out before Him. He begins each year to love, to suffer, to teach, to heal, to win, to die, to rise again, for the redemption of the world. "Joy to the world, the Lord is come!" Let us take Him seriously and enthrone Him King over all life. We shall not get far in winning the world to Him until we enter fully into what He meant by His coming. That will largely change the character of our Christmas celebrations, and it may also help us to change the character of this modern world in which He lives and for which He longs. We shall not make enough of Christmas until we seriously begin to "make enough of Jesus Christ."

NEW FORD CAR TO BE ON DISPLAY AT SIMS-BROWN

Sims-Brown, local Ford dealers, have issued invitations to the first showing of the new car in their showroom on Dec. 23. The people of Wetaskiwin are in for a real surprise. This new car is a very conclusive bit of evidence that the Ford Motor Company has anticipated the needs and desires of Canada's motorists for a long way into the future as they did when the Model T was introduced in 1908. In performances under all conditions, speed, riding comfort, roadability, ease of control, flexibility, and the other points on which cars are judged, the new car performs astonishingly, even when compared to expensive cars. The details which to date have been looked upon as "big car" features have been included by the Ford Motor Company of Canada in the New Car," said Sims-Brown, "yet the Ford genius for precision in quantity production, unequalled in the world, have placed the car within the reach of every purse.

"We want the people of Wetaskiwin to feel perfectly free to visit our showroom and inspect the car," Sims-Brown declared. "Our service policies will apply not only to the New Car, but to all Model T's now being operated. We would not want any of our present owners to feel that their cars will become orphans. As long as Model T cars are operated, we will maintain service and a full stock of parts."

Children and Criminality

As we pick up our morning paper daily we are more and more impressed with the unhappy fact of crime. The fact that crime seems to be a specialty of youth. That the robberies, murders, sex crimes and property crimes which are taking place in the world are being perpetrated by youth, not by hardened, aged criminals.

We thought when we got through with the World War we should have better off. But not so.

The refusal of a small part of the people to play life's game in harmony with the best judgment of the majority, the insistance upon the part of a small minority that will not regard the law made by the majority when taken in the aggregate, is costing us every eighteen months as much money as we owed at the end of the World War.
Of course that vast sum includes not only the amount of property damaged in robberies, but it includes the economic loss to the nation from these persons who refuse to play the game of life in accordance with the rules. We lose their productive value while suffer from their destructive habits.

Extensive and Thorough Survey Made

That work of diagnosis has been done for the last three years by organized Social Service Leagues. Three thousand and fifty-six convicted persons were studied. I mean by that when the guilt of these persons was determined, there was put into the cell with them some domestic person who worked hard for their honest lives and emerged unscathed after studies ranging all the way from day studies, with all the facts in connection with the criminals checked and accuracy. Look for three generations, until it was possible to lay out a chart of the real life story of these 3,056 convicted persons. Here is what the survey shows, the whole characteristics of these 3,056 persons:

Eighty per cent of them came from broken homes; ninety-six per cent of them were male persons; the average age of these persons was under twenty-one; these figures do not include anybody from the juvenile court; the minimum age of any of the 3,056 persons was 16 years; I am dealing only with those in the court of general sessions; only one per cent of them had been to college; nine per cent of them had been to high school; fifty per cent of them had never been beyond the third grade in school; seventy-five per cent of them had no occupation at the time they were arrested, nor for a reasonable time before their arrest. Sixty-six and two-thirds per cent of these persons had never in their lives had any contact with any organized religion. The fact that there is a great army of youth with those common characteristics is the root of our difficulty in criminology.
I know of only one human instrumen-tality within the reach of the wage-earners, by which this condition may surely be prevented among his own children, and that is a membership in the Loyal Order of Moose. This fraternity gives to a widow when that home is broken by the death of the husband, the closest appeal to an indemnity covering losses she has sustained that humanity has so far ever been able to evolve.

I take it that it is our bounden duty not only to invite every man who is a Caucasian and who is eligible and who is decent to affiliate with this fraternity.
Armies of men and women banded together are bringing about the correction of suffering among the hundreds of thousands of dependent boys and girls who are annually being thrown into the great mass of human souls that are finding their way into jails asylums, prisons and even into the death chamber.

Why? Because the fathers and mothers of these children died leaving no protection. There is not a question of doubt in my mind, or in the minds of the men who guide the destinies of this great fraternity but that in the not far distant future we shall have

Mr. John R. Novosky, Humboldt, could not sleep for the dizziness in my head. My head was in a whirl, and I was so nervous, at times, I did not know what to do.

"I was worried over my work, which was neglected because I could not do it, and this together with the pains made me worse every day.

"I tried all sorts of medicine, but of no avail, so I consulted a physician, but was just as bad as ever.

Christmas in
Other Lands

In this matter-of-fact age superstitions which troubled our forefathers no longer exist. Nevertheless many of the ancient rites and ceremonies connected with Christmas are still faithfully carried out. For instance, how many remember that when the Yule log in the open fireplace on Christmas Eve that the ashes should be collected and preserved so that the log and its flames may be secured from evil spirits throughout the coming year?

The burning of the ashen faggot on Christmas Day is an old west of England custom that has pretty well died out now though 't heid the field for many centuries. There are two explanations of this old custom. One, still believed in by the gypsies, related to the tradition that when Christ was hiding Himself in the Garden of Gethsemane all trees remained silent with the exception of the ash which told where He was hiding.

For this reason it was burnt at Christmas. The second suggestion is that the origin of the practice lies in the fact that it was by an ash-wood fire that Christ was first washed and dressed at Bethlehem.

Our Santa Claus is possibly but another name for the ghost god that was worshipped at the Teutonic winter festival of the solstice. He gets his name from the old German "Zunie Klass" meaning the "big Deity," although by tradition he is St. Nicholas.

In some places the belief is still firmly held that all cattle go down upon their knees at midnight and in Cornwall it has been held until quite recently that at the same moment all the water in the well was temporarily turned into wine but, anyone testifying it would be instantly killed. Another old superstition in the elder districts in the west of England was in the efficacy of "wassailing" the apple tree." On Christmas Eve after a goodly feast of cider and cakes, all the lads and lasses went into the orchard and a cake was placed upon the first fork of the most productive apple tree and a pitcher of cider poured over it. Slinging an old refrain, they would then dance round the tree. This simple rite was believed to ensure a large crop the following year.

In Ireland it is still believed by many people that on Christmas Eve Judas Iscariot was allowed to revisit the earth and anyone looking into a jar on that night would see either Judas or the Devil peering over his shoulder.

SEED DISTRIBUTION BY THE
DEPARTMENT OF FIELD CROPS

The Department of Field Crops at the University has for some years cooperated with the seed-growers of Alberta, by maintaining so far as possible pure stocks of the leading registered crop varieties grown in the Province.
Growers may from time to time purchase from the Department at reasonable cost small quantities of elite stock seed with which to renew their own crops.

The Department also maintains illustrated stocks of certain non-registered varieties, mainly of its own breeding or selection, which are believed to fill a useful place in some part of the Province.

There are thus two distinct classes of seed distributed, and two purposes served: (1) elite stock seed, promoting the work of the Seed Growers' Association, both provincial and national; (2) non-registered seed of varieties or selection, which in tests at the University have surpassed in yield or quality or, adaptation to the kinds commonly grown, and of which growers may be able to secure a reliable stock for testing on their farms.

Weddings*CALLIES—LARSON

The Misses Wetaskiwin, was the scene of a beautiful wedding on Wednesday, December 21st, at 12 o'clock noon, when Elmer and Mrs. C. Larson of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Callies, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Callies, was united in marriage with Herman Ferdinand Callies, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Callies, of Wetaskiwin.

The bride looked charming in a weddign gown of golden georgette with metallic flowers, with an overdress of georgette and taffeta of cape effect, beautifully embroidered.

The bridegroom was Esther Callies, sister of the groom, who wore a dress of pale green georgette. The groom was ably supported by his friend, Mr. Harold Switzer, of Wetaskiwin. The officiating minister was Rev. A. L. Elliott.

The happy couple left on the afternoon train for Edmonton, and after a short visit will make their home on their farm east of Wetaskiwin.

GEORGE—CAMPBELL

A very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Campbell of the Verdin district, on Thursday, Dec. 15, when their second eldest daughter Jessie Adelaide, was united in marriage to Earl George, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. George, The Rev. Rueckede of Camrose, officiated.

Promptly at four o'clock, Mrs. George Reiter, sister of the bride, played the piano while the bridal party took their places beneath an arch of red and white streamers with white bells.

The bride was charming in a gown of white headed georgette and her veil was caught back with orange blossoms. Her bouquet was of white carnations and ferns.

Her sister Elsie, as bridesmaid, was becomingly gowned in turquoise brocaded satin, trimmed with white georgette, and carried a bouquet of sweet peas.

Mr. Ernest Humble ably supported his cousin as best man.

The groom's gift to the bride was a piece of silver with pearl handles; to the bride's maid a set of pearls; and to the best man a belt and chain.

After the ceremony the guests sat down to a sumptuous wedding dinner, the table being centred with the bride's cake. Many beautiful and useful gifts were received by the young couple.

Mr. and Mrs. George will reside on the groom's farm in the Verdin district.

out of what is now only an ordinary dirt road.

F. P. Layton, Camrose, who was spokesman for the delegation, pointed out that the Wetaskiwin-Provost highway now carries an immense volume of traffic and runs through what is probably the most thickly settled portion of rural Alberta. The present road is entirely inadequate, he said, to the demands thus made upon it, and much more difficulty has been encountered during the past season in travelling it. Re-grading and graveling would be necessary to put it into good condition.

The Camrose board of trade headed the delegation, which included representatives from all the towns along the line and from a number of interested organizations. Premier Brownlie promised that consideration would be given to their case.

The delegation was composed of the following:

Wetaskiwin—T. T. Jeune, reeve and L. Ballantyne, councillor, M.D. of Montgomery.

Bittern Lake—C. T. C. Roper and W. Ramsell, councillors, Village of Bittern Lake; A. Cole, vice-president and J. B. Hoyden, secretary, U. F. A. Local.

Camrose—Geo. Lowry, president, P. P. Layton and D. R. Francaise, Board of Trade; A. E. Tanner, reeve, and C. H. Weisser, councillor, M.D. of Lloyd George; G. E. Roose, vice-president and Walter Marler, director, U. F. A. Local.

Olhaton—Sam Webb, president, and P. Giles, director, U. F. A. Local.

Bawlf—Geo. Sutherland, Mayor; C. Hansen, president, and A. Rybarson, director, U. F. A. Local; Sam Lomnes, reeve and F. Scheidegger, councillor, M.D. of Parkland; and S. T. Wetterberg and J. T. Tawaski.

Daysland—S. E. Anderson, Mayor, and M. J. Leeb, councillor, Village of Daysland; Mr. Richmond, president, and H. H. Grirkith, vice-president, Board of Trade; Van Henry, councillor, M.D. of Parkland; Oscar Pearson, president, U. F. A. Local; H. E. McDaniel.

Strome—H. V. Phillips, president Community Club; Dr. Carmichael, Strome council; N. S. Cranton, Way Lane U. F. A. Local.

Killian—H. Sayers, town of Killian; J. Murray and S. H. Sadler, U. F. A. Local; H. Rowlands and W. P. Stratton.

Sedgewick—A. G. Andrews, M.L.A., for Sedgewick constituency.

School Notes

During the past two weeks the students of the High School have been writing their examinations for the term just ended. Reports will be issued to each student before the end of the term, Friday. Parents are requested to examine these reports carefully and to see that the student in future puts more time upon those subjects in which there is evident weakness.

School closes on Friday, Dec. 23rd and re-opens on January 3rd. During the holidays, school children will have free use of the ice at the rink from two o'clock till four o'clock on Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday and from two to three o'clock on Tuesday and Thursday. On Monday, the 26th, however, owing to the hockey game at three o'clock, the skating period will be postponed till after the game. As some changes may be made in these hours, a final schedule will be posted in the rink room. Students will kindly watch for this announcement. Up to the present very few of the smaller school children have been skating owing, undoubtedly, to the cold weather. Should a larger number desire to skate, provision will be made for them during the regular hours.

COMMUNICATION

Dear Mr. Editor:

One you spare me a few lines of your valuable space just to pay a small tribute to a very dear friend of mine, William Johnstone, the artist, who has just passed away starting sadness in his son's home in Chicago. The many pupils and students in Wetaskiwin who came in touch with him while Art Instructor here, will share with me the great sorrow we feel at losing such a happy and delightful other, and landed in Edmonton at a time when there was no thought of art teacher, friend and companion.

We arrived in Canada some seven years ago from old historic Edinburgh within a month or two of each other, and landed in Edmonton at a time when there was no thought of art.

Nothing but real estate and opening up new country. Tramping together over the old homestead of L. Garneau where the University now stands and picking out the pictoresque spots on the banks of the Saskatchewan, we watched Edmonton grow. Trekking up White Mud Creek to the top of the hill I have watched him transfer many a beauty spot full of color in the spring or the fall, to his sketch book. His water color sketches were particularly soft and fine in color and atmosphere.

Tramping round the sloughs and willows, it was marvellous the beautiful colors he would show me hidden in the most unlikely spots. Our favorite hike was round Capital Hill, before the Lieutenant Governor's residence was built.

The scenes on the river, with the sun setting lighting up the city and the windings of the Saskatchewan were emblazoned on our memories.

William Johnstone deserves to be remembered for the hard fight he put up to get the people of this western land to see the beauties that surround them. The Edmonton Journal has given him full credit for his share in starting the Art Club of that city, which now numbers a goodly company. Like many other artists he was passionately fond of music and all that was refining and elevating. His motto was "Let us be happy that we can infect others with happiness and only show them the beautiful side of life."

His memory will always be cherished for the good influence he spread among his fellow men.

Sincerely Yours,
J. E. FRASER.

Christmas Message

It is nineteen hundred years since the Gospel of the Kingdom was first proclaimed—a gospel of hope and peace and joy. Wherever it has been taught and preached and acted upon the lives of men have become ennobled and enriched. Yet the world has been slow to accept the glad message, and even in so-called Christian lands men have hesitated to ally themselves with the meek and lowly Jesus. The reason is not far to seek.

There was nothing at fault in Him or His message, but those who were commissioned to preach and teach were unwise or ineffective in their ministry or they did not fully grasp the significance of the Gospel. Some, such as Paul and the writer of the Epistle to the Hebrews, saw Christianity as the natural consummation of Jewish teaching and philosophy; others with philosophic bent, such as the writer of the Fourth Gospel, endeavored to explain the mystery of the incarnation and the resurrection and thus add the foundation for mysticism in all its forms. A little later the directive power of the new movement became centralized; the church was organized into a church and the system became progressive with its forms and ceremonial, with unreasonable demands. Ever and again there were sects who partially compromised the teaching of the Master and who took the part for the whole. Thus we find legalists and fatalists, faith-healers and spiritualists, unitarians and trinitarians, baptists and pseudobaptist—over one hundred and fifty distinct types, each apparently sure of its own orthodoxy. Let us for the sake of argument say that "each was partly in the right, but not that all were in the wrong." Is it any wonder that non-Christians become bewildered.

Now, after centuries of trial it seems that Christians are beginning to understand that preaching and teaching are impossible unless paralleled by observing and doing. India is being Christianized not by the missionaries, but by laymen of good repute who live honestly, fearlessly, graciously, as did the Master. China is looking for evangelists who speak in deeds rather than in words. Even at home we have tired of the gospel of fear, we can distrust the gospel of love, because profession seems so far

THE STAR OF BETHLEHEM

(By John Calvin McCoy)
The Star that rose at Bethlehem
Has never set; it glows for them
Who seek its light. 'Tis leading yet.

They saw the Star—and they alone
Who longed for it. For men like The Star that shone on Bethlehem
Will never set.
